

Mark used to work in advertising and is prepared to admit it. He is now Executive Director of the London Institute for Contemporary Christianity, and works as a speaker, writer and consultant specialising in work issues and contemporary culture. His books include "Thank God it's Monday," "The Best Idea in the World," and the ground-breaking essay "Imagine – How we can reach the UK."

Mark is married to Katriina and they have three exuberant teenagers - Matt, Tomas & Anna-Marie – and a dog called Spark.